Gleb Ivanov
OCTOBER 27

Gleb Ivanov, piano

With a personality to match his larger-than-life talent, Russian pianist Gleb Ivanov has been captivating audiences since winning First Prize in the 2005 Young Concert Artists International Auditions. Noted for his superior technical abilities, graceful phrasing, and careful articulation, the young super-virtuoso makes a special return engagement to Evergreen, playing works by Schubert, Liszt, and Gounod. Ivanov graduated from the Moscow Conservatory and earned his Master’s degree from the Manhattan School of Music.

Linden String Quartet
MARCH 23

Sarah McElravy, violin
Catherine Cosbey, violin
Eric Wong, viola
Felix Umansky, cello

Praised for its “remarkable depth of technique and brilliantly nuanced, sumptuous tonality” (MusicWeb International), the exciting young Linden String Quartet is currently the Graduate String-Quartet-in-Residence at Yale University, where the ensemble is mentored by the legendary Tokyo String Quartet.

Founded in 2008, the Quartet has enjoyed remarkable success, winning awards at many recent competitions, including the Concert Artists Guild, the Fischoff, Coleman, Kauder, and Borciani competitions. Their Evergreen recital features works by Haydn, Beethoven, Bolcom and others.

Frank Solivan & Dirty Kitchen
APRIL 27

Frank Solivan, mandolin, vocals
Mike Munford, banjo, vocals
Dan Booth, bass, vocals
Chris Luquette, guitar, vocals

Frank Solivan & Dirty Kitchen stir the pot with a recipe for bluegrass and new acoustic roots music that offers a smorgasbord of musical sounds, combining multiple layers of razor sharp instrumental expertise, stellar songwriting, solid lead, and harmony vocals. This dynamic group was named “Best Bluegrass Band of the Year” in 2012 by the Washington Area Music Association.
