Rockland Historic District
Saturday, May 15, 2010

$50 JHU Museums members & docents, $65 all others
The price includes guided tours, lunch, beverage, and dessert. Please contribute towards your driver's gas costs.

Depart promptly by carpool from Evergreen Museum & Library, 4545 N. Charles St., at 10am; return by 4pm.

THE MILLER COLLECTION

Our first stop is the home of Anne Miller, whose husband, the late J. Jefferson Miller, was a Maryland Historical Society director and earlier a glass and ceramics curator for the Smithsonian Institution. (A Hopkins alum, he was also a member of the original Homewood Restoration Advisory Council.) Recently decorated by Baltimore designer Stiles Colwill, the Miller's house is filled with their impressive, highly personal collection. Homewood Museum director-curator Catherine Rogers Arthur will guide us through the many masterworks of American fine, decorative, and folk art, as well as English ceramics made for the American market.

THE VALLEY INN

We'll stop for lunch at the Valley Inn, originally known as Brooklandville House and once regarded as the ‘Oldest Railroad Passenger Depot’ in America. This historic restaurant and tavern building dates from 1832 and is on the National Register of Historic Places. Its history is closely associated with the Baltimore and Susquehanna Railroad, which crossed the property just to the south. Presidents Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, and William Howard Taft all stopped here when traveling by rail through the area.

ROCKLAND VILLAGE

Rockland Village—the oldest continuously inhabited mill village in America—was first inhabited by the Susquehannock Indians and was surveyed in 1660. In 1706, Richard Gist had 200 acres surveyed and patented as “Turkey Cock Hall,” which remains today. 30-year Rockland resident Tom Bruggman will host us for dessert in his home, the former Rockland Tavern. Following an historical overview of the village, Tom will lead us on a walking tour, with stops at Stone Row (a group of eight stone houses built c. 1810), and several other historic properties.

Please detach & return with check made payable to JHU Museums, to: Homewood Museum, 3400 N. Charles St., Baltimore, MD 21218. For more information, call Homewood at 410.516.5589.

ROCKLAND HISTORIC DISTRICT  May 15  10am – 4pm  $50 members & docents, $65 all others

Please choose one: ☐ Valley Chef Salad ☐ Crab Cake Sandwich ☐ Grilled Chicken Sandwich ☐ BLT
All sandwiches served with fries. Choice of soda, iced tea, or coffee. Cash bar on your own.

Name ___________________________________ Phone ___________________________